Mitchell Museum of the American Indian

Education Task Force

Curriculum Overview and Resource Project

Spring, 2010
Table of Contents

1. Introduction to Curriculum Overview and Resources

2. Background Essay: "No 'Indian Free' American History" by Scott Stevens, Akwesasne Mohawk

4. General Guidelines: Teaching about Columbus

5. General Guidelines: Teaching about Thanksgiving

6. Resources for Teaching about Illinois Native Peoples

7. Curriculum Overview

8. General and Grade Level Resources for Curriculum Overview
Introduction to the MMAI Curriculum Overview

We of the Mitchell Museum of the American Indian Education Task Force have created this curriculum overview to help teachers from kindergarten through high school incorporate teaching about American Indians into their curriculum. This overview contains topics and questions at each grade level so that continuous teaching about American Indians occurs every year.

The organization of our curriculum overview is taken from Teaching about Native Americans by Karen Harvey, Lisa Harjo, and Jane Jackson, a booklet available through the National Council for Social Studies. There are four concept clusters: Environment and Resources, Culture and Diversity, Adaptation and Change, and Discrimination and Conflict. Under each cluster, there are questions geared toward four grade levels: K–2, 3–5, 6–8, and 9–12. While we envision the curriculum as occurring in sequence from kindergarten through grade 12, teachers could use the activities at any level that they teach by tailoring them to suit that particular grade level in terms of scope and depth. It is also important to keep in mind that teaching about American Indians can take place outside of social studies. That is, much interesting and relevant content can be taught in English, Art, Music, Science, and Physical Education classes.

We hope that our guide will help clear up some confusion about what to teach about American Indians. We believe that American Indian history is American history. Teachers should be able to incorporate much information by keeping in mind that as American history unfolded, American Indian history was impacted and changed. The history of this continent is both Indian and European. Both histories can be taught widely and deeply while still covering the basic state standards for your district.

We have found that students who visit the museum have a curiosity about the native people of this continent. We hope you will use this guide to inspire your students to learn more about American Indians every year.

Thank you very much.

The Mitchell Museum of the American Indian Education Task Force

Vikki Proctor, M.S. Ed., Chair
Linda Bechtle, M. S. Ed.
Barbara Johnson, M. S. Ed.
Fran Hagemann (Ojibwe-Métis), M. S. History, Advisor
Kathleen McDonald, Executive Director of MMAI
"No 'Indian Free' American History"

By Scott Manning Stevens, Akwesasne Mohawk; Contributing Writer

In this season of Columbus Day and Thanksgiving, when children learn about how Europeans ‘discovered’ America and how the Pilgrims and Indians all got along so famously, we have one of the few times in the year that American Indians are mentioned in school. Anyone who has taught college age students will be familiar with the refrain that they don’t know anything about America’s original inhabitants because they weren’t taught about American Indians after elementary school. Our various regional and national histories are collapsed into one catchall term: Indian. Granted some may know us as Native Americans, but the term is not the problem, it’s the lumping us all together and then leaving us in the past.

Our histories do not disappear into the world of show-and-tell, lunchboxes, and field trips. This problem is a national one – American Indian peoples are not included in the national narrative of the United States beyond the Indian Wars of the 1800’s – if that. We need to call for our inclusion in national curricula at every level. One place to begin would be in demanding better textbooks for our students. I am hopeful that people will review the current state of primary and secondary school textbooks and determine whether they are doing an adequate job.

Several decades ago the Cahuilla/Cherokee scholar Jeanette Henry Costo, in her study Textbooks and the American Indian, reprinted a letter sent by the Grand Council Fire of American Indians to Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago in 1927. In the letter the Council urged the mayor to address the lack of fair-mindedness in the public school curricula of the day as it related to American Indians. One line states, “We therefore ask you while you are teaching school children about America First, teach them about the First Americans.” I wonder how much has changed since 1927.

Doubtless the books have stopped calling us savages but do we really get much farther beyond the Thanksgiving Day pageants? If students have some recollection of the Trail of Tears, do they know the Navajo Long Walk? If they know the massacre at Wounded Knee in 1890, do they know the siege of Wounded Knee in 1973? And is conflict the only thing they think about when they think of American Indians or do they learn of our achievements as poets, athletes, scholars, diplomats, performing artists, and authors?

I’m sure that if parents, teachers, and students demanded a curriculum that included American Indians in every facet of American history and culture that the textbook producers and education policymakers would have to respond. For that to be accomplished we need to make a concerted effort.

My hope is that interested parties from the community, with the assistance of the Title VII Program and scholars working with the McNickle Center for American Indian History could work together to produce a report of the current state of public education on American Indian history and culture K – 12. We could review existing textbooks and look at requirements for Chicago area public school students. We might encourage educators in other communities to do the same thing and that in turn could lead to statewide action. Our communities represent a diverse collection of talents – let’s use them to address this critical issue.

I have a mantra of sorts that I like to teach: now repeat after me, “There is no ‘Indian Free’ American history, it’s just taught that way,” “There is no ‘Indian Free’ American history, it’s just taught that way,” . . .

Scott Manning Stevens is the Director of the D’Arcy McNickle Center for American Indian History. For more information, you can visit their website at www.newberry.org/mcnickle/darcyhome.html.
Terms You Should Know

“Indian, Native American, American Indian”
Excerpt from: What’s in a Name? Indians and Political Correctness by Christina Berry, tribal citizen of the Cherokee Nation

[Disclaimer: This excerpt lays out in simple terms the history of what to call the indigenous people of North America. It is one person’s point of view and others may disagree with it. We selected it to put the issue in context. The Task Force uses the term “American Indian” in our curriculum because we carried out this work under the auspices of the Mitchell Museum of the American Indian.]

“So what is it? Indian? American Indian? Native American? First Americans? First People? We all hear different terms but no one can seem to agree on what to call us. In this article I will explore some of the reasons behind these variations on Indian identity...

How many times have you heard someone say “Indian” and then correct themselves in a hostile tone, "Oh right, now they want us to call them Native Americans." Would it surprise you to know that most of the Indians that I know do not like the term Native American? So who comes up with these terms and why?

As the story goes, when Christopher Columbus landed on an island in the Caribbean he thought he was in India. So naturally he referred to the Natives he met as Indians... the name Indian has since stuck...[T]he term can create confusion because it may be difficult in conversation to differentiate between the Indians of America and the Indians of India. The term American Indian became popular because it helped with this confusion...

In the late 20th century, as political correctness came to the forefront, many of these long standing ethnic terms were abandoned for new neutral terms or phrases... Thus, "Native American" was born...There is, however, a very obvious problem with this term. Any person born in "America" is a native American...Though the intentions were good, the term Native American seemed to cause more problems than it fixed. It created in mainstream Americans a fear that they would look insensitive if they accidently used the wrong term and it made many Americans resentful of Indians for being too sensitive. Ironically, Indians, or American Indians (whichever you prefer), did not seem interested in changing their name. AIM, the American Indian Movement, did not begin calling itself NAM. The American Indian College Fund did not change its name. Many Indians continue to call themselves Indian or American Indian regardless of what the rest of America...calls them.

In the end, the term you choose to use (as an Indian or non-Indian) is your own personal choice. Very few Indians that I know care either way. The recommended method is to refer to a person by their tribe, if that information is known. The reason is that the Native peoples of North America are incredibly diverse. It would be like referring both a Romanian and an Irishman as European. It's true that they are both from Europe but their people have very different histories, cultures, and languages. The same is true of Indians. So whenever possible an Indian would prefer to be called a Cherokee or a Lakota or whichever tribe they belong to. This shows respect because not only are you sensitive to the fact that the terms Indian, American Indian, and Native American are an over simplification of a diverse ethnicity, but you also show that you listened when they told what tribe they belonged to.

Nation a politically organized body of people under a single government

Sovereignty is the quality of having supreme, independent authority over a territory. A sovereign nation defines itself and its citizens, exercises self-government and the right to treat with other nations, applies its jurisdiction over the internal legal affairs of its citizens and subparts (such as states), claims political jurisdiction over the lands within its borders, and may define certain rights that inhere in its citizens (or others). . . . “The Indian Commerce Clause by its own terms acknowledges tribes as sovereigns, sovereigns other than states for which the federal government needs delegated authority to regulate.”

Tribe a social division of people based on shared culture.
General Guidelines: Teaching about Columbus

Teaching about Columbus and his conquest of the New World has become fraught with challenges. In many places, even the celebration of October 12, Columbus Day, has been renamed. In the midst of this controversy, it is important to think about how to present the history of the New World with a balanced perspective.

Who was Christopher Columbus? He is variously regarded as one of the greatest mariners in history, a visionary genius, a mystic, a national hero, a failed administrator, a naive entrepreneur, and a ruthless and greedy imperialist. (The Library of Congress' 1492: AN ONGOING VOYAGE) Yes, Columbus was a brave and courageous man. Yes, he was an entrepreneur and talented salesman. But he was also a man of his times and his attitudes towards the Indians he encountered reflected that. They were not quite human and “civilized.” As he himself wrote in his journals: It appears to me, that the people are ingenious, and would be good servants and I am of opinion that they would very readily become Christians, as they appear to have no religion. They very quickly learn such words as are spoken to them. If it please our Lord, I intend...to carry home six of them to your Highnesses, that they may learn our language... (http://www.fordham.edu/halsall/source/columbus1.html) Columbus saw native people as simple and capable of being good servants. He also participated in the beginning of American Indians slavery, a subject rarely covered in our schools today.

At the same time, almost from the beginning of the conquest, there was another man, Bartolomé de las Casas. He eventually became the strongest voice of support for the natural rights of Indians. Starting out as an encomendero and participating in the conquest of Cuba as a priest, he witnessed first-hand many atrocities that caused him to rethink the way in which the conquest was being conducted. But he too was a man of his times. He was not against the conquest itself. He simply felt that it could be carried out in a benevolent manner. That is, he still believed in the value of converting Indians to the Catholic faith, but with a gentle hand to lead them to willingly convert to the faith. He also proposed black slavery as a means of alleviating the lot of the Indians. But very quickly he repented this action and spent the rest of his life trying to make amends for it.

Using these two men as two sides of the same coin, the conquest of the Americas presents a wonderful opportunity to teach about historical perspective. Given the attitudes and values of the late 15th and early 16th century, you might study Columbus and Las Casas within the framework of these attitudes. At the same time, the third perspective would be that of the Indians themselves.

Here are some other guidelines adapted from “An American Indian Perspective on Columbus” by Esther Stutzman at http://nwindian.evergreen.edu/curriculum/truthsofcolumbus.html.

1. Use "arrival" or "landing", instead of "discovery".
2. Use timelines that portray/respect the sophistication, advancements and accomplishments of Native societies and cultures at the time of his "arrival".
3. Christopher Columbus wasn't his true name, only the English version of it.
4. He wasn't always a "sailor", more accurate his is described as a "tradesman" or "jack-of-all-trades".
5. He never thought to prove the world was round, it had been known long before his first voyage.
6. He was merely looking for "profit", by finding an easier and faster way to reach China and India.
7. His motive was "wealth", not spreading Christianity.
8. Queen Isabella did NOT pawn the royal jewels to finance his voyage, even though she did offer to, they managed through financial juggling and loans to raise the necessary funds for such a costly venture.
9. Columbus demanded 10% of all the bounty for all subsequent voyages, not just his own, because of his "pioneering" effort.
10. Columbus was NOT the first person to sight land. One of the crewmen first shouted "Tierra" (land). Since Spanish royalty promised great riches to the first person to sight land, Columbus paid the crewman a small amount and wrote in his own log it was he, Columbus, that had first sighted land.

Book

Internet Links
(Functional Links as of June, 2010)

General
• Alternative Holiday Names for October 12 at http://www.timeanddate.com/holidays/us/native-americans-day
• Challenges to Columbus Day By AIM in Colorado at http://hnn.us/roundup/entries/30597.html
• History of Columbus Day, History Channel at http://www.history.com/content/columbusday
• Learning to Think Historically: Columbus, Exploration, and the Idea of a Flat Earth http://teachinghistory.org/issues-and-research/research-briefs/19265
• Myths about Columbus at http://teachinghistory.org/history-content/quiz/20401 and http://teachinghistory.org/nhec-blog/22951

Grade Level Lesson Plans
• Grades 1-2 Columbus Encounters America: What are we Thinking? http://www.eduref.org/Virtual/Lessons/crossroads/sec3/k2/unit2/UNIT2-1-Lesson2.html
• Grades 3-5 What Was Columbus Thinking? http://edsitement.neh.gov/view_lesson_plan.asp?id=257
• Grades 3–5 “Chart Columbus’ Voyages” http://www.teachervision.fen.com/columbus-day/lesson-plan/3029.html
• Grades 4–5 Columbus Day (Native American Perspective) http://teacherlink.ed.usu.edu/tlresources/units/Byrnes-celebrations/columbus.html
General Guidelines: Teaching about Thanksgiving

There has been a lot of press recently about the “true” story of Thanksgiving. It is probably better to view the teaching about this holiday as a chance to provide balanced, rather than true coverage. That is, it is important to look behind the myths created over centuries.

A very interesting book to start your reinvention of lessons about Thanksgiving is Penny Colman’s Thanksgiving: The True Story published by Henry Holt in 2008. Although this book is aimed at grades 5–9, it could be adapted to suit any grade level. Here is a quote from Booklist about this book.

Drawing on historical research and the results of a written questionnaire, Colman first retraces the growth of Thanksgiving as a national holiday and then surveys the wide range of customs and mouthwatering comestibles associated with the celebration. Both tracks are illuminating. The author opens with a chart of competing claims to the First Thanksgiving on this continent and examines the evidence for each, concluding that there is no direct relationship between any particular historical event (including the one she dubs the Pilgrims and Indians story) and the modern holiday. Using her own recollections along with those of her questionnaire respondents, she describes gatherings, rituals (e.g., parades and football games), and Thanksgiving food—which for many American immigrant families includes—but is definitely not confined to—turkey, stuffing, potatoes, and pumpkin pie.

The second book is 1621: A New Look at Thanksgiving by Marge Bruchac and Catherine O’Neill. Aimed at grades 4 and up, it presents a balanced and thoughtful view of this holiday.

Other Books

General Links

- Are You Teaching the Real Story of the First Thanksgiving? http://www.education-world.com/a_curr/curr040.shtml
- Deconstructing the Myths of the First Thanksgiving http://www.oyate.org/resources/shorththanks.html
- Teaching About Thanksgiving: Extensive Background from Tacoma School District Curriculum http://www.ewebtribe.com/NACulture/articles/thanksgiving.html
- “Thanksgiving” at Plimoth Plantation http://www.plimoth.org/kids/homeworkHelp/thanksgiving.php
- Thanksgiving as a National Day of Mourning, 1970 http://www.informationclearinghouse.info/article21333.htm
- “Who are the Wampanoag” http://www.plimoth.org/kids/homeworkHelp/wampanoag.php
- Wampanoag: People of the First Light http://www.bostonchildrensmuseum.org/educators/wampanoag/index.htm
- Aquinnah (Gay Head) Wampanoag http://www.wampanoagtribe.net/Pages/index
- Mashpee Wampanoag http://mashpeewampanoagtribe.com/
- Pokanoket Wampanoag http://pokanoket.us/
- Seaconke Wampanoag http://www.seaconkewampanoag.com/
- The First Thanksgiving: You are the Historian http://plimoth.org/education/olc/index Js2.html
Grade Level Lesson Plans

- Grades K–2 The First Thanksgiving [http://www2.scholastic.com/browse/lessonplan.jsp?id=594]
- Grades 3–5 The First Thanksgiving [http://www2.scholastic.com/browse/lessonplan.jsp?id=595]
- Grades 3–5 and 6–8 You are the Historian [http://www.plimoth.org/education/olc/index_is2.html]
- Grades 6–12 The First Thanksgiving [http://www2.scholastic.com/browse/lessonplan.jsp?id=596]

(Taken from Oyate website at [http://www.oyate.org/resources/longthanks.html])

From an American Indian Perspective

Bruchac, Margaret M. (Abenaki), and Catherine Grace O'Neill, 1621: A New Look at Thanksgiving. Washington, D.C.: National Geographic Society, 2001. (Grades 4 and up)

Dow, Judy (Abenaki) and Beverly Slapin. Deconstructing the Myths of "The First Thanksgiving" Access at [http://www.oyate.org/resources/longthanks.html]

Wittstock, Laura Waterman (Seneca), Ininatig’s Gift of Sugar: Traditional Native Sugarmaking. Minneapolis: Lerner Publications, 1993 (Grades 4-6)

Primary Sources from a Colonialist Perspective

RESOURCES FOR TEACHING ABOUT ILLINOIS NATIVE PEOPLES

This is not an exhaustive list, but it will get you started!

www.native-languages.org/illinois.htm This site offers a variety of links for students and teachers about a number of historic tribes in the state of Illinois.
genealogytrails.com/ill/indianvillages.html Great chronologic info on the many tribes and the areas they inhabited through history.
www.native-languages.org/illinois.htm Good info and links about the many tribes that once inhabited this area.

HO-CHUNK (WINNEBAGO) RESOURCES

The Ho-Chunk, given the name of Winnebago by early explorers, were one of the earliest recorded people living in Illinois, dating back to nearly 500 B.C.

Ho-Chunk Nation
Chicago Branch Office Tribal Office Building
4941 N. Milwaukee Ave. Box 667
Chicago, IL 6063 Black River Falls, WI 54615
(800) 696-3392 (800) 294-9343
www.ho-chunknation.com

Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska
100 Bluff Street
PO Box 687
Winnebago, NE 68071
402-878-2272
www.winnebagotribe.com Links to tribal history and constitution are found here.

www.accessgenealogy.com/native/tribes/winnebago/winnebagohist.htm Winnebago history www.accessgenealogy.com/native/tribes/winnebago/winnebagochiefs.htm Winnebago chiefs and leaders www.bigorrin.org/hochunk_kids.htm Good basic history, FAQ’s and links.
www.hocak.info Great Ho-Chunk language site

ILLINIWEK INDIAN RESOURCES

The descendants of the Illinois people are the members of the Peoria Tribe of Oklahoma, a confederation of Kaskaskia, Peoria, Piankesaw and Wea tribes who were forced from their ancestral lands in Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and Missouri.

www.peoriatribe.com

Peoria Tribe of Indians of Oklahoma
P.O. Box 1527
118 South Eight Tribes Trail
Miami, OK 74355-1527
918-540-2535
This official site has a good history, as well as information about the tribal emblem.
www.museum.state.il.us/muslink/nat_amer/post/htmls/il.html This wonderful site from the Illinois State Museum contains information about history, society, economy, technology and beliefs as well as great activities and resources.
http://rfester.tripod.com/ Robert Fester has compiled some good information (and some better links) about the Illini Confederation.
www.tolatsga.org/ill.html Lee Sultzman’s detailed information on the history of the Illini.
www.archaeolink.com/native_american_nations_illinois.htm Links to a variety of sites about the Illini.

On the “Piasa Bird”, a petroglyph discussed in Marquette and Jolliet’s Journals found near Alton, IL, and the accompanying legend attributed to the Illini Indians:
www.altonweb.com/history/piasabird/ One version of the legend and photos www.indians.org/welker/piasa.htm Another version of the story www.piasanet.com/piasalegnd.htm Another version of the story
www.illinoishistory.com/piasabird.html An article refuting the legend

KICKAPOO RESOURCES

Before European contact, the Kickapoo lived in northwest Ohio and southern Michigan before treaties forced them to move to central Illinois.

www.kickapootribeofoklahoma.com
Kickapoo Tribe of Oklahoma
P.O. Box 70
400 North Highway 102
McLoud, OK 74851
405-964-2075

Kickapoo of Kansas
P.O. Box 271
Horton, KS 66439
785-486-2131

Kickapoo Traditional Tribe of Kansas
HC1 Box 9700
Eagle Pass, TX 78852
830-733-1209

bigorrin.org/kickapoo_kids.htm Good FAQ’s and links www.accessgenealogy.com/native/tribes/kickapoo/kickapoohist.htm Kickapoo history www.native-languages.org/kickapoo.htm Kickapoo language activities and links www.native-languages.org/kickapoostory.htm Wisaka and the Buzzard story
MIAMI RESOURCES

The Miami were recorded to be living in the Chicago area in the 1600s and eventually settled in Indiana.

Miami Indians of Indiana
P.O. Box 41
80 West 6th Street
Peru, IN 46970-2135
765-473-963
www.miamiindians.org

The Sovereign Miami Tribe of Oklahoma
202 South Eight Tribes Trail
Miami, OK 74354
918-542-1445
www.miamination.com The FAQ link provides some basic information on the history and culture of this tribe; more specific information can be obtained through the website below.

Myaamia Project
200 Bonham House
Oxford, OH 45056
513-529-5648
www.myaamiaproject.org This group of Miami professionals and educators offers a great variety of books and videos to revitalize the Miami language.

Wea Indian Tribe of Indiana
643 Mulberry St
Clinton, IN 47842
www.weaindiantribe.com This site offers a good History section, complete with Treaties, a list of chiefs and map of known villages in the Illinois and Indiana area.

Wea Indian Tribe
715 Park Ave
Lafayette, IN 47904
www.wea-indian-tribe.com

http://earchives.lib.purdue.edu/cdm4/browse.php?CISOROOT=/gwinter This fascinating site of the Library archives from Purdue University gives the writings and sketches of George Winter, who lived among the Potawatomi and Miami Indians of Illinois and Indiana for a number of years before they were moved to the West.

www.accessgenealogy.com/native/tribes/miami/miamihist.htm In addition to a brief history, this site also provides links to Miami treaties, villages, bands and chiefs.

www.dickshovel.com/mia.html Historian Lee Sultzman provides specific information on Miami history and culture in this ongoing work.

www.museum.state.il.us/muslink/nat_amer/post/htmls/be_folk.html This site provides links to a number of Miami and Illinois stories for children.
OJIBWE (or CHIPPEWA) RESOURCES
Some of the villages located in Illinois before removal were comprised of people from the Odawa, Ojibwe and Potawatomi tribes, sometimes called the Three Fires Confederacy.

Bad River Band of Lake Superior Chippewa
P.O. Box 39
Odanah, WI 54861
http://witribes.wi.gov/docview.asp?docid=19076&locid=57 Gives additional information on this band.

Bay Mills Indian Community
12140 West Lakeshore Drive
Brimley, MI 49715
906-248-3241
www.baymills.org

Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians
2605 North Bayshore Drive
Suttons Bay, MI 49682
866-534-7750
www.gtbindians.org

Keeweenaw Bay of Lake Superior Chippewa
16429 Beartown Road
Baraga, MI 49908
906-353-6623
www.ojibwa.com/ Their constitution, tribal newsletters and links are available at this site.

Lac Courte Oreilles Band of Ojibwe
Route 2 Box 2700
Hayward, WI 54843
715-634-8934
www.lco-nsn.gov This site has history, constitution and clan links.
http://witribes.wi.gov/docview.asp?docid=5629&locid=57 Gives additional information on this band.

Lac du Flambeau Band of Lake Superior Chippewa Indians
George W. Brown, Jr. Museum & Cultural Center
603 Peace Pipe Rd.
Lac du Flambeau, WI 54538
715- 588-3333
www.lacduflambeaunation.com Check out the Tribal Departments link for other links to this Nation’s forestry and fisheries programs. The “About Us” link gives a good history, and “Tribal Government” provides by-laws and treaties.
Lac Vieux Desert Band of Lake Superior Chippewa Indians
P.O. Box 249
Watersmeet, MI 49969
906-358-4577
www.lvtribal.com/ A brief history is available at this site.

Red Cliff Band of Lake Superior Chippewa
88385 Pike Road Hwy 13
Bayfield WI 54814
715-779-3700
www.redcliff-nsn.gov

Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe
7070 East Broadway
Mt. Pleasant, MI 48858
989-775-4000
www.sagchip.org

Sokaogon Chippewa Mole Lake Band of Lake Superior Chippewa
3051 Sand Lake Road
Crandon, WI 54520
715-478-7517
www.sokaogonchippewa.com Click on the “Did You Know?” link for historical information.

St. Croix Band of Lake Superior Chippewa
24663 Angeline Ave
Webster, WI 54893
800-236-2195
www.stcciw.com History and tribal government available here.

Sault Ste. Marie Tribe of Chippewa Indians
523 Ashmun Street
Sault Ste. Marie, MI 49783
www.saulttribe.com Good history pages.

http://www.d.umn.edu/cla/faculty/troufs/Buffalo/pbwww.html Great stories, beliefs and techniques from the oral history of a Minnesota Ojibwe elder. A true gem!
www.nokomis.org/ Site of the Nokomis Learning Center in Michigan, with its on-line store and links.
www.nald.ca/CLR/chikiken/page23.htm Ojibwe clan system information www.tolatsga.org/ojib.html comprehensive Ojibwe history by Lee Sultzman www.nativetech.org/shinob/ojibwelanguage.html Ojibwe language word list www.ojibwemowin.com Learn Ojibwe online with this Endangered Languages Learning Module
OTTAWA (or ODAWA) RESOURCES

Some of the villages located in Illinois before removal were comprised of people from the Odawa, Ojibwe and Potawatomi tribes, sometimes called the Three Fires Confederacy.

Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa & Chippewa Indians
2605 N West Bay Shore Dr
Peshawbestown MI 49682-9275
866-534-7750
231-534-7750
www.native-languages.org/ojibwe.htm#language

Little Traverse Band of Odawa Indians
Government Center
7500 Odawa Circle
Harbor Springs, MI 49740
231-242-1400
www.ltbbodawa-nsn.gov

Little River Band of Ottawa Indians
Central Government Offices
375 River Street
Manistee, MI 49660
Phone: 231-723-8288
www.lrboi-nsn.gov This site has a complete history, constitution and additional links.

Ottawa Tribe of Oklahoma
P.O. Box 110
Miami, OK 74355
918-540-1536
www.ottawatribe.org

Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa & Chippewa Indians
2605 N West Bay Shore Dr
Peshawbestown MI 49682-9275
(866) 534-7750
(231) 534-7750
www.native-languages.org/ojibwe.htm#language

www.bigorrin.org/ottawa_kids.htm Good basic information, FAQ’s and additional links.
www.native-languages.org/ojibwe.htm#language Language resources www.native-languages.org/ottawa-legends.htm Links to Ottawa stories.
POTAWATOMI RESOURCES

Some of the villages located in Illinois before removal were comprised of people from the Odawa, Ojibwe and Potawatomi tribes, sometimes called the Three Fires Confederacy.

Citizen Band Potawatomi
1601 South Gordon Cooper Drive
Shawnee, OK
405-275-3121 or 800-880-8990
www.potawatomi.org This site includes good pages on history and language.

Pokagon Band of Potawatomi Indians
58620 Sink Road
Dowagiac, Michigan 49047
1-888-376-9988
www.pokagon.com Site includes “Keepers of the Fire: The Potawatomi Nation”, a great presentation on the cultural history of the Neshnabek.

Forest County Potawatomi
P.O. Box 340
Crandon, WI 54520
1-800-980-5479
www.fcpotawatomi.com This site’s History pages include the many treaties with the Potawatomi Nation, as well as the Forest County constitution. There’s also a very good written history and links to Medicinal Plants. Archived issues of the Potawatomi Traveling Times also contain good cultural and historical information.

The Nottawaseppi Huron Band of the Potawatomi
4415 Byron Center Avenue Southwest
Wyoming, MI 49519-4800
616-249-015
www.nhbpi.com/ Their History page gives an interesting Timeline of the Band. Their constitution is also available to download.

The Hannahville Indian Community
N14911 Hannahville B-1 Rd.
Wilson MI 49896
906-466-9933
www.hannahville.net Go to the “Hannahville Indian School” link, and then to “Potawatomi Language” for video lectures and games.

Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation
16281 Q Road
Mayetta, KS 66509
785-966-4000
www.pbpindiantribe.com Very good History and Culture pages.
Match-E-Be-Nash-She-Wish Band of Pottawatomi Indians (Gun Lake Tribe)
P.O. Box 218
Door, MI 49323
www.mbpi.org Their History pages include newspaper articles from more than 80 years ago!

Walpole Island First Nation
R. R. 3 N8A 4K9
Ontario, Canada
519-627-1418
www.bkejwanong.com Walpole Island and the surrounding region is called Bkejwanong, or “where the waters divide.” It has been home to aboriginal people for more than 6,000 years. The “docs” link in this Web site offers a wide variety of books, documents and videos to order to supplement your knowledge of this area.

www-personal.umich.edu/~ksands/Warpole.html The Home page gives the beginning history of the Potawatomi, Ojibwe and Odawa people who settled in Canada, and the individual tribal histories continue through other specific links. Additional links continue the histories through the War of 1812 and subsequent migration to Canada. There’s also links to some interesting old photos, as well as black ash baskets.

SAC (or SAUK) and FOX (or MESQUAKI) RESOURCES
The Sauk and Fox were originally two groups located in Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa and western Illinois.

The Sac and Fox Nation
349 Meskwaki Road
Tama, IA
641-484-4678

Sac and Fox Nation
Route 2, Box 246
Stroud, OK 74079
918-968-3526
www.sacandfoxnation-nsn.gov/ Official site of the Oklahoma Sac and Fox tribe.

Sac and Fox Nation
RR 1 Box 60
Reserve, KS 66434
www.sacandfoxcasino.com/tribal-history.html The Kansas Sac and Fox do not have their own tribal Web page at this time; however, this page of their casino’s site has a good brief history as well as a link to significant people of the tribe.

www.bigorrin.org/sf_kids.htm Good basic information for students, and links to other sites.

www.mnsu.edu/emuseum/cultural/northamerica/sauk.html A good basic site with some links from the Minnesota State University.
With European exploration, the Shawnee People migrated or were forced to move from their ancestral lands in Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan and for some years inhabited southern Illinois before their removal West.

Absentee Shawnee Tribe
P.O. Box 1747
2025 South Gordon Cooper Drive
Shawnee, Oklahoma 74802
405-275-4030
www.astribe.com/

Shawnee Tribe
P.O. Box 189
29 South Highway 69A
Miami, OK 74355
918-542-2441
www.astribe.com/

Eastern Shawnee Tribe of Oklahoma
P.O. Box 350
Seneca, MO 64865
918-666-2435

www.bigorrin.org/shawnee_kids.htm Good basic information, FAQ’s and links to other sites.
www.accessgenealogy.com/native/tribes/shawnee/shawneehistory.htm Tribal history www.accessgenealogy.com/native/tribes/shawnee/shawneechiefs.htm Good information about important figures in Shawnee history

www.indigenouspeople.net/starmaid.htm The Starmaid story www.eastbayastro.org/articles/lore/corona.htm Another Starmaid story www.native-languages.org/shawnee.htm#language Links to Shawnee language resources.